Boudoir Wardrobe Guide

As a curvy woman myself, I know how scary, overwhelming, and frustrating shopping for wardrobe is... ESPECIALLY when it's for a boudoir session. Believe it or not, I'm much less worried about what you wear than you might think. And you might say, "Yeah right, Steph", but I don't want you to stress about what to wear either. This is why I created this guide AND provide a complimentary client closet with amazing pieces that fit sizes XS-4X!

PROPS

Here are some photos of looks that I want you to limit to ONE per session (what I consider “props”):

- Robe or men’s shirt
- Graphic clothing or team jersey
- Heels or shoes of any kind
- Work attire
- Special Occasion Pieces
- Food of any kind

Some TIPS to make “props” look their best:

- Buy the graphic tee, jersey, or team shirt closer to your size.
- Make sure you choose the cleanest and newest pieces (unless there's sentimental value)
- Consider dry cleaning any of the wardrobe so that it's clean and pressed.
- If you don't wear high heels on a normal basis, please don't bring them to wear.

Bringing food to incorporate?

Pizza, tacos, donuts - anything that isn't too large to bite, and whatever you don't have to use utensils for - these are the sexiest foods.

Always bring all the wardrobe you're considering to your session! I'll easily help you choose what will coordinate and look the best!

Tips to choosing the best looks for your session:

You've got style - STICK TO IT.
If you're more casual, look for casual bodysuits or bra/underwear sets and use one of my off-the-shoulder shirts!

TUMMY CONSCIOUS?
Babydolls make you look larger than you are. Stick to a bodysuit!

AVOID BRIGHT COLORS
Stick to neutral colors and jewel tones.

LINGERIE DOESN'T HAVE TO BE EXPENSIVE TO BE BEAUTIFUL!

After your session is booked, you will receive a FULL list of my favorite places to shop for lingerie!

Also, think outside of the box...

GO BOTTOMLESS!

GO TOPLESS!

As always, every client has the opportunity to go topless/nude at the end of their session if they're feeling up for it!

This is when you'd be wrapped up in the sheets - unless you want the front of you showing, everything is covered.

What to expect...

I want your boudoir experience to be AMAZING! I will do everything I can to make sure you slay your session!

MY wardrobe during a session is what I like to call "comfy chic". I stay comfy so I can move around the studio, show you poses, and easily capture all your best angles!

Also, I am always more than happy to help you choose your wardrobe for your session. So please email me once your session is booked with any questions you might have and with photos of what you're thinking of wearing!
